RACE PLUNGER PASSES ON.

"Pave" Johnson, Picturesque Track Character, Is Dead.

New York, June 30.—The death here of David C. Johnson, marked the passing of the last member of the best known trio of better men in the American turf. The other two were "Pittsburg Phil" and "Pittsburg" Walton.

Perhaps the greatest plunger of these three was Johnson. He differed from the others in that he was a lawyer as well as a backer of horses, and when horses were not running he found other methods of tapping fortune. His crimes tell a story of his spending hours in a local hotel one night a few years ago, flipping a cent with these hostesses of Pittsburg at $1,000 a flip.

Johnson's winnings at the race track were very heavy. After the last race one afternoon, a few years ago, he told his friends that he had won $25,000 on the afternoon's speculation. Bets of $10,000 on a race were not unusual for him and he won higher, especially on the great Rosebud.

But the money that came to him in his chunks melted away just as easily, and his friends say that he left little of the fortune he had won. Johnson was about 50 years of age.

An End to Wellman Corporation.
August 1, 1911. June 30.—A petition for the dissolution of the Wellman-Chicago-Record-Herald polar expedition, a corporation formed in this city two and three years ago to finance the aerial expedition of Walter Wellman, has been filed by the clerk of the company with the supreme court. A hearing will be held on July 22.

Two Cuban Players Report.
Cincinnati, June 30.—Ralph Almedia and Armando Marann, Cuban players, who were purchased from the New Britain, Conn., club by the Cincinnati National, report that they will play for the first Cuban players to be signed by a major league club.

Tender Nerve Centers
Cause Foot Torture. Try This Sure Cure for Foot Troubles.

The nerve centers of the feet are very near the surface and are very sensitive. Undue pressure or friction from shoes too tight or too loose sets up an inflammation and acute soreness follows that is frequently an agony. Do not suffer an hour. Here is an infallible treatment that will cure this and all foot troubles.

"Dissolve two tablets compound of Calocide compound in a glass of water. Soak the feet in this for 15 minutes, gently massaging the sore parts. (Less time if the feet are not too sore.) Repeat this each night until cure is permanent." The effect is simply astonishing. Every bit of soreness and inflammation is drawn out immediately, leaving the feet fresh and cool. Corns and calluses are peeled right off. Blisters are reduced to normal. Swollen and smelly feet, swollen and tender feet need but a few treatments. Calocide formerly used only by doctors but any druggist now has it in stock and will quickly get it. A twenty-five cent package is claimed to cure the worst feet.

EVENING CHAT

BY RUTH CAMERON.

Do you ever see trees? Really "see," I mean, not merely "look at."

It seems to me that trees are one of the wonderfully lovely things in nature, whose beauty few of us appreciate. So many people confine their admiration and enjoyments to the conventional things they have seen and know—trees that are green and tall and straight and sturdy, whose beauty few of us appreciate. How many men and women there are who couldn't tell you what kind of trees they pass on their way down town or to work, or even what kind of trees grow in front of their homes. They just haven't thought them worth looking at.

And yet, can you think of anything more lovely than a white birch tree standing slim and tall and straight, like a beautiful young girl, with every leaf a quivering in the wind like the shimmering and fluttering of her garments? Can you think of anything more gratifying to the eye than the symmetry of a perfectly symmetrical maple tree? Can you think of anything more inspiring symbol of majesty and staidness and dignity than a towering pine or fir or a giant redwood tree?

Do you know any better example of exquisite grace than a young willow? A perfect tree seems to me one of the most wonderful things that God ever made.

There used to be a marvellously perfect maple tree in my line of vision from my study window. It towered high above the three-story house it stood beside, and when I was tired it was a real rest to me to watch it toss its green branches against the pale blue of the sky. I think almost everyone in the neighborhood loved that tree.

Eight months ago a new owner of the property chopped that maple down because "it littered up the yard too much." I almost turned socialist the day that tree was slain, in my rebellion against a system that makes it possible for a man who cares not appreciate that beauty to own and destroy it.

Trees seem to me more individual and human than anything else in nature. No wonder the old Saxons, and even the moderns, have loved them. Isn't it almost impossible to think that that tall elm tree that has grown up with your family and now stands on stately guard over your house, that gnarled apple tree that has welcomed two generations of clambering youngsters into its rheumatic old arms has no individuality?

It seems so to me. Teach your children to know the different kinds of trees, teach them to realize that trees are quite as lovely as flowers, get them interested in these beautiful mute servants of man's comfort and pleasure. A little tree will give them a lifelong heritage of interest and enjoyment.

The sash has come into its own again and modes of wearing it are innumerable. The sash is the sash of the past. Black velvet seems to hold its place and the Dresden ribbons are high in favor, while sashes of messaline and satin in the shade of the gown are not to be ignored. The center figure in the drawing pictures a novel effect in black velvet with a fall of lace trimming one edge. On the left is another black velvet sash piped with white. The sketch on the right shows a novel sash of messaline falling over the upper edge of the skirt and having the ends fringed with silver.
